Tarot & Tea

For Anxiety, Conflict, Fear, and Health Support

Feeling anxious, overwhelmed, or caught in cycles of worry and fear is something many of us face. Tarot can be more than a tool for insight. It can be a personal guide for grounding, release, and gentle self-care.

With this guide, you will explore the Tarot cards most commonly associated with conflict, anxiety, stress-related health issues, and fear, such as the Devil, the 5 of Coins, and the 3 and 9 of Swords, and learn how each card can be a tool for wellness. For each card, you'll find:

- Card meaning keywords
- A carefully selected herbal tea recipe to soothe and restore
- A crystal correspondence to support balance and courage
- A simple somatic activity to release tension and anchor you in the present

How to Use

For each card, brew the suggested tea, hold the crystal, and try the somatic activity to gently work with the card's energy. These herbs were chosen for their calming, grounding, or restorative properties.
